Comunity Builder

Is community builder compatible with 1.2? I am looking to do a community builder with cbsubs site and would like to use my mulit installation but don't want to mess anything up by installing it as I have other production sites on the installation. I would eventually like to have multiple cb sites on the same install but separate configurations, is that possible?

YES CB 1.2 is supported.
You can find all the extension that are currently defined in JMS in the http://www.jms2win.com/component/content/article/135

You can effectivelly create totally independent website or event decide to share the CB users between the website.
For the procedure to share the users, see the video in tutorial step 16
