If you need to clone a website, you can create a JMS Template rule that will use the website to copy as input. (see the "new DB website parameters").

You can get inspired of the default rule like

- replicMasterDomain
- replicMasterSubdomain
- replicMasterSubdir

Depending if you want that the new website is a domain, subdomain or subdirectory.

In very summary, if you re-use those default rule to create a new one, you will just have to change the template site present in the "New DB Site parameters"

Once the new JMS Template rule is created, you can use it in the JMS Manage site to create your new site.
