advanced search for hosting providers

Posted by Eris - 2012/05/28 16:57

_____

I find it difficult to look for a host that will suit our site's needs. I know there are lots of web hosting companies out there, all offering their best service ever. Well I know that they are great, but still I don't want to end up having regrets.

My business partner and I know that almost every business or hobbies had their own websites so we decided to have our own. It's such a pain to look and listen and read paid reviews so we decided to look for a suitable host ourselves. We end up using this tool http://www.webhostingsearch.com/advanced-search.php and just by choosing your preferred criteria for a host, options will be getting narrower until only a few hosts are left. From there, we had an idea on which to choose. We ended up with Hostgator.

==========

Re: advanced search for hosting providers

Posted by edwin2win - 2012/05/29 19:16

_____

We are also using hostgator (shared hosting and VPS) and they are OK.

They are also other companies that are working perfectly.
In general it is easier to select a hosting company that provide cPanel.
Their environment generally does not have any issue with permission and privileges.

==========

Re: advanced search for hosting providers

Posted by Eris - 2012/05/30 07:36

_____

yep, I visited Hostgator and inquire about their service. Hopefully, their customer support is great. I find customer support really important, and I believe that a company with a good support will definitely establish their brand as one of the best and reliable in the market.

==========