jms2win ROCKS!

Posted by 8limes - 2011/05/11 20:54

I had a customer with the necessity to create copies of their website and online shop for each of their stylists. And this program allows me exactly to do that within minutes now, what was a pain in the ass before. Sorry for the language, but it really was. Now it is almost as easy as hitting a button.

Although I had some issues getting it to work correctly in the beginning, it turned out to be actually a good thing. I ended up purchasing two support hours, - and edwin spent even almost 3 hours - where I got properly educated on how his program works and its possibilities. He explained everything in detail while we set up everything correctly and created a master, group and slave. He shared his screen with teamviewer, which I additionally recorded, just in case I need to review something.

It feels just like christmas! :laugh:

==========