Slave site configuration from master site

Posted by ratul - 2009/07/02 12:57

How to configure menu for slave site from master site... I have already installed multi site component (com_multisites_V1.2.0_RC2.zip component package)...Unable to create menu,Article content etc. for slave site form master site.....

Please help.....

Thanks in advance.

==========

Re:Slave site configuration from master site

Posted by edwin2win - 2009/07/02 20:25

Concerning the menu, they are independ in each website.
If you want to manage the menu of a slave site, you have to login into the slave site.
You can not create a menu item in the master website for a slave site.

If you requirement is to create menu entry in the master website to get access to some menu entry in a slave site, you can use the "Multi Site Menu Item" product.

What do you mean by "Unable to create menu,Article content etc. for slave site form master site"
If you have an error message, can you give it completly.

With JMS, you can share the users and some extensions like community builder, jomsocial, ...
If you want to share the articles, see our "Article Sharing for JMS" product.

==========