Article Sharing?
Posted by 3www - 2009/07/07 12:41

_____

I installed multi sites and article sharing.

Is there an extrension or a way to read articles from slave sites?
The only way is to have a menu item pointing to an article or section or category from a slave site.

How can i e.g have a module component in my master site to display latest news or articles from ALL the slave sites?

If not then what is the point of using article sharing?

I could make a menu item with the url of the article or category or section of the slave site i want.

==========

Re:Article Sharing?
Posted by edwin2win - 2009/07/07 12:58

_____

The article sharing works like the "article" menu type.
This is exact that you have to create a menu item in which you define the articles, section or category that you want to display.
This is what is described in the product detail of the article sharing.

I have already think develop multi site news module but it does not exist yet.
Perhaps in coming month.

==========

Re:Article Sharing?
Posted by 3www - 2009/07/07 13:05

_____

This will be great cause i think this is all about article sharing.
The thing is that we are working on a project that has a lot of information.In order to be organised and not mess with hundrends of joomla sections categories and all this we build seperately slave sites.
But it is very important to be able to have in our front page articles playing from all slavesites.
At least the joomla default latest news configured for the beginning!

Thank you very much for the support and your quick replies.
Please consider of building this module because it is very importan for someone using multisites!

==========

Re:Article Sharing?
Posted by edwin2win - 2009/07/07 13:10

_____

I know that a multisite news module is interesting.
I just have no time for the moment.
I can tell you that I reallly think develop it but I can not say when.

==========