Newbie Help Multisites 1.1.23

Posted by aztommyb - 2009/09/29 22:53

Hello. This might be a really dumb and maybe a really simple question.

I have a client that has a master Joomla Install located at http://www.filechives.com

This client wants to manage (duplicate) sites for his clients, based on a "template" site located at http://www.filechives.com/multisites/master1

I've read the manuals and watched tutorials but still don't understand how I can set the site under the master1 directory as the site I want to duplicate, but still manage from the main site at the root. Does that make sense?

Can someone please tell me how I can setup the site under the master1 directory as the master, but manage it and all slave sites from the root install located at www.filechives.com?

Thank you!!
tom

==========

Re:Newbie Help Multisites 1.1.23

Posted by edwin2win - 2009/09/29 23:30

If you want to duplicate the slave site "master1" you can get inspired from the video present in the tutorial 13
http://tutorial.jms2win.info/jms11x/frontend_slavesites/index.html

Create a JMS Template
Template ID = replic_master1
Select the template site : master1

The other parameters are the default value that you can setup also to avoid re-enter them each time.
In general, you can fill also the provide template values for
- domain
- New table prefix
- Deploy directory

When you are in JMS manage site:
- Site ID: slave1
- Domain : www.slave1.com
- Select the template "replic_master1"
- Put a new table prefix (if not present in the JMS template)
- Perhaps also the deploy directory

I hope this will help you

==========