Running JMS on a test server first

Posted by qdevery - 2010/08/17 19:21

Since we have to register the product I was curious if it is possible to install the JMS product on a test server fist and then reinstall it on the production server later.

==========

Re: Running JMS on a test server first

Posted by edwin2win - 2010/08/18 23:23

You can install and register JMS Multisites several times as long as you can to login on this website with the account that ordered the products.

As explained in the product detail, you can install JMS multisites an unlimited number of times to create unlimited number of master.
http://www.jms2win.com/download
See first section of the product detail.

==========