slave created what's next?
Posted by javier011 - 2010/11/21 16:01

Hi,

I have supposely created a slave site, but when I go to the URL of the slave site, I get this:

"No configuration file found and no installation code available. Exiting... "

thanks

J

==========

Re: slave created what's next?
Posted by edwin2win - 2010/11/21 16:46

This mean that the installation directory is not present in the slave site.
Did you install the JMS patches correctly.
Did you used a JMS Templates in which you have ignored the "installation" directory ?

==========

Re: slave created what's next?
Posted by javier011 - 2010/11/21 18:35

Hi,

now it seams like the slave site has been created and I can view it online.
Now my issue is that I dont see how to change the template.
I have installed a new template in the Master, then select it in the Slave, but that also change the template in the Master.

WHERE IS THE PROBLEM?

thanks
J

==========

Re: slave created what's next?
Posted by edwin2win - 2010/11/21 23:12

Select a default template should not affect the master except if you think be connected on the slave and in fact you are on the master.

In general, it is recommended to have different site title to be able verify that you are connected on the appropriate website.

==========