I feel really dumb, but I can not figure out how to share banners created in the master site to the slaves.

can someone help?

Different solution to share banner.
If you display banners directly with HTML code that you implement in a Joomla template, you can share the Joomla template directory and that will be identical.

Another solution is to use extensions that can be shared.
ie. Ads Manager is an extension that can be share and manage Advertising. So perhaps it could help you manage "shared" banner.

Thanks, i can look into these two extensions.

Right now I am using what I believe is the pre-loaded "banner module"?  mod_banner is there a way to share this default banner module or do i need to switch to something else?

this is the site:  www.oufishing.com

Unfortunatelly, the standard Joomla banner can not be shared.

tried to install ads manager, but it told me i had to enable legacy mode or something.  now in trying to sort out KUENA, i seem to recal that that may conflict or cause problems...

is there any other banner module that can be shared and works with the latest version of JOOMLA?

I now see that the "BANNER" component can be "propogated" and "overwritten" to the children sites.  I assumed that i could update banners in the master site, then select these two options and it would overwrite the banners in the children site, thus creating a mirror of the master.

but it did not seem to work that way.  can i keep banners current in all sites this way somehow?

Still looking for a clean/easy way to share banners or text ads/links from the parent to slaves and keep them all updated together via the master.

I've installed ads manager and have it working, but it does not allow me to place the ads on existing pages, rather creates a new "ad page", which is not what i need.

any ideas on other banner/advertising packages that can be shared?

can this be shared?  ProJoom Multi Rotator

http://extensions.joomla.org/extensions/ads-a-affiliates/banner-management/6303

basically, i need to be able to put the ads/links/banners in the right hand column on various pages in the site.  seems pretty simple, but i can't get it done yet.

Guys, need help here...someone please tell me a Banner extension that can be shared?  Or text link extension, classified extension, anything along these lines.

The only requirements are that the ads/banners can be managed in teh master site and shared to slave sites, AND that the banners/ads can be positioned as needed in the existing site.

IE:  I can not use ads manger because it requires me to create a new page to display the ads.
