Slave issue

Posted by iantechie - 2011/11/05 22:56

I created a slave when I go in the back end it shows everything the master has. But on the frontend it shows a clean empty joomla install. the back has everything installed and selected.

What do I have to do you get the slave to show features of the master.

http://jgcouture.com/
http://test.jgcouture.com/

==========

Re: Slave issue

Posted by edwin2win - 2011/11/06 14:01

Sorry but I don't understand your question.

If seems that the "test" website is a fresh slave site that is absolutelly correct when you have setup a new fresh slave site.

If you want to replicate and existing websites or for example replicate your master website, see the "replicMaster" rule that is illustrated in the tutorial video 0.d
http://www.jms2win.com/en/tutorial#jms12x-0d

We also have frequently replained in the forum host to replicate the master (if this is your question).
So search for "replicMaster" that is generally the name of the rule that I use.

==========

Re: Slave issue

Posted by iantechie - 2011/11/14 19:21

I will do the steps and the rules in the tutorial but I thought both front ends of the websites would would look be the same?

Thanks for response

==========