Hi guys,

I have created a jms template using a slave site, and used that template for front-end slave creation.

Now in the front-end slave creation, the password set is the creation time has no effect. The user info that was available in the template that is coping all the time. Also email value of the new slave is not changing.

Please help, about how to create new user for front-end slaves.

In the JMS template rule, did you setup the field for the new admin password, new admin email.

For example, you can use the current logged user information to setup the new website email and password.

New admin email = {user_email}
New admin password = {user_psw}

If you let the field empty, this is the field entered in the front-end that are used. (new email, new password)
