Multisites Article Sharing problems

Posted by thirdhatch - 2012/05/09 01:02

Using Joomla 2.5.4

Installed Multisites and Multisites Article Sharing on the main site and then began installing the slave site.

It is complex to make this all work and I am seeing several components, modules and plugins causing problems along the way. But the main issue I am having is with the Multisites Article Sharing components. It is not storing the category data when I edit the menu item and it is not following the article ordering settings I am setting.

Is there a way I can get this thing to work?

Can you provide an exact copy of the settings that you are using to help us try reproducing what you are describing.

This is not clear which values is not working.
Perhaps give a screenshot where you surround the parameter that you think is not working.

I have attached a screenshot of the setting used to create the site. I will create a short video for you to see exactly what is happening. It is difficult to explain in screen shots.http://www.jms2win.com/images/fbfiles/images/tuffyeast_settings.png

Thank you very much for the video.

This will help us to try reproducing exactly the same things.

We will keep you posted here when we will be able to reproducting it.

Concerning the point of the "refresh" category when you edit the menu item, this is joomla compatibility issue that is present in joomla 2.5.
We didn't yet found the difference between joomla 1.5 and 2.5 that cause this behavior.

Thanks. The biggest issues for us are the "Read More" link going to error 500 and the sort order not follow the correct rules. Once these are sorted out we will be very happy!

thirdhatch, thank you for your video that allowed me creating a similar environment that contain the error that you reported.

As I have now an environment that contain this error, I can now investigate the reason and fix the issue.

We are still seeing some strange sorting issues with the articles shared from the master site in Joomla 2.5. Anything you can do would be appreciated.

We sort our articles based on creation date but we are seeing strange sorting when we create a new article with a creation date older than previous articles. The new article with the older creation date is showing up at the top of the sort order. It seems like the sort order is ignoring the creation date in some cases.

Thanks!

Can you give me exactly the parameters that you setup for the ordering to allow me trying to reproduce it.

Which menu item type did you selected with which parameters.

Is it in the joomla 2.5.4 features or category blog or category list all or category layout ?

At least give a screenshot that allow see the values that you used or better do a video that will help me reproducing the same environment.

Do you have that for a specific menu type or all menu types.

We use Category Blog.

You can take a look at the result I am getting here:

I can't figure out how to attach an image so here is a link to the screenshot:
