When moving to a new server...

Posted by jrosenbaum - 2010/04/13 18:02

I'm having some issues getting it to connect when moving to a new server and database.

I have one master in one database, and 2 slaves in another. I changed hosts and I got the master site to work. But I can't seem to get the database to connect.

Would it be best to just do a new site (with the same settings) and a new template? I've tried to hunt through the files to change references to the old server, but it still doesn't seem to work.

==========

Re: When moving to a new server...

Posted by edwin2win - 2010/04/14 08:33

Normally, you would have to change the "configuration.php" file of each slave site manually to reflect the new server and new DB name / login and password.

The configuration.php files are located in each deploy directories

==========