Problem with Multisites backend style

Posted by ricardoos - 2010/10/12 17:24

Hi,

I would like to know if someelse has had this problem:

Since yesterday when I go into the multisites component in my joomla backend everything is ok, but when I clic in show 30 or show 50 or show all slaves jump down menu all the css style gets lost and I get the list of slaves with their information but without the style, it is actually very hard to work like that because all the new - delete, etc. buttons dissappear.

It gets fixed when I use any of the other jump menus, like select db.

I would appreciatte any advice.

Thankyou.

==========

Re: Problem with Multisites backend style

Posted by edwin2win - 2010/10/12 21:30

Perhaps you should analyze the source html generated and check if you would not have an html error somewhere.

I suspect that you have a website title that would have special characters or something like that that would corrupt the html generated and create an html syntax error somewhere that results with a wrong results.

Whitout seeing anything, it is difficult to give you more info an help.
Use for example a Firefox and firebug to debug the page generated.

==========

Re: Problem with Multisites backend style

Posted by ricardoos - 2010/10/15 00:46

Thankyou Edwin I think it was a name of a slave as you say because I have been adding and deleting slaves and suddenly it now works correctly again. thankyou.

==========