FaLang Define Extension

Posted by triggeru571 - 2012/08/01 10:48

---

Hi there, not sure where I should post this, but JMS is giving a red cross next to this extension in tools and reccomends contacting you to define the extension.

FaLang is a multi language site manager for J2.5. Because of the extreme delays and poor customer service (even if paid for) by JomFish, this component is very rapidly taking over the multi language sphere, and hence becoming very important.

Could you therefore look into enabling it for JMS?

http://extensions.joomla.org/extensions/languages/multi-lingual-content/18210

Thanks

M

==========

Re: FaLang Define Extension

Posted by edwin2win - 2012/08/01 21:26

---

I have downloaded the free version and will have a look to add its definition in a next release of JMS 1.2.94 and JMS 1.3.0 beta 3

For your information, in JMS 1.3.0 medium edition, there are new functionalities to detect the browser features such as the "accepted language".
So that, with the new "Set new default" functionality present in JMS 1.3.0, it is possible to automatically redirect a user on the appropriate language variant of the website.

See the JMS 1.3.0 variants
http://www.jms2win.com/multisite13variants

==========

Re:FaLang Define Extension

Posted by triggeru571 - 2012/08/07 09:39

---

Fantastic - I look forward to have the definition :)

==========