Realtyna component

Posted by titus - 2012/09/01 01:18

---

hi Edwin,

Ok, i know that in one week, this is the twice time i wonder for a new compatibility addon/patch...
It's because the first one can't ! LOL

I'm working on a real estate website and after take a look on the different component that exists, i make my choice on realtyna which is by far the more flexible and can be adapted by needs...
I was sure it was compatible with JMS (i have dreamed on it, i don't know...), but installing it, i realise it don't ! :(
There is a "conflict" (files javascript on 404) that needs some patch.

I really really need it... So if you could, i attach you file on email...
Thanks,
Regards,

==========

Re: Realtyna component

Posted by edwin2win - 2012/09/01 12:45

We have correctly received the extension in the attachement of an email.
We have added the definition of this extenion in the JMS Tools but we cannot review this extension.
It is encrypted with "Zend Guard".
So we are not able to review it and potentially provide a patch.

Any incompatibilty with the extensions encrypted with IonCube or Zend Guard or other products must be reported to the author of the extensions.

==========