Sorry for being a pest, but the list says this can be shared, but it is not an option to share in jms tools only install is an option...other components have sharing as an option and on the first page when I click on the slave site in jms tools it says:

DB Version: 5.0.67-community (Sharing supported)

I confirm there is a bug in the JMS sharing definition for Kunena that will be fixed in the next release of JMS patch definition 1.2.7.
We hope release it tomorrow and will include other extension definition.

During our Kunena review, we have noticed a problem when Kunena is installed in websites that share the same DB with different table prefix.
We have reported the bug to Kunena and also give them the fixes that must be applied to the latest Kunena V1.5.5.
You can find our post and the description of the bug in their forum at
