Hello
Multisite feature is exactly what I need, thank You for that. But another feature what I'm using a lot in my hosted web-pages are the Phoca extensions. First of all, I'm using Foca Photo Gallery, Phoca maps, Phoca restaurant and Phoca guestbook -extensions. All of them are essential for my clients. So, in order to start with Joomla Multisite, I need more information about the availability of these extensions, I have found vital for my sites. Where can I found it?
Thank You in advance for your advice.

If you want to see the list of extensions currently defined for the JMS Tools, you can go http://www.jms2win.com/component/content/article/135

Concerning Phoca, we have already defined Gallery, and guestbook.

When an extension is not defined in JMS tools, this just mean that you have to re-install it in the slave site back-end instead of using the master JMS tools.

We can review those maps and restaurant extensions.
We just need that you send us in attachement of an email those extension to allow us review them an potentially add their definition in next release of the JMS patches definitions.
