Jevents and link between data and files

I have Jevents shared between master and slave in JMS environment. However I can seem to customise the html view of it. Is there any way to break one of the symbolic links for a single database table {master_jev_defaults}? This way I can have the Layout views saved differently for each site.

Concerning the table jev_default, we have not found it in the JEvents 1.5.3 that we have tested.
I don't know if this is a new table or a table added with other extension than JEvents.
If this is something present in a new version of JEvents, please send us the extension in attachement of an email to review it.
