Joomlart T3 Framework with Multisites

Posted by NHA - 2011/08/11 22:27

Hi all,

I'm having a problem with multisites working with Joomlart's T3 framework. When I create a copy of a website the newly created slave site keeps the same template directory as the original. Any changes made to the template of the child will affect the original, and vice versa.

I would like the newly created site to use the multisites/newsite/templates folder instead of that of the parent.

This seems to be strictly a T3 issue, so if anyone can offer any help please do so.

Thanks!

==========

Re: Joomlart T3 Framework with Multisites

Posted by edwin2win - 2011/08/14 09:32

Check the JMS Template rule that you used to create the slave site.
Verify if you used "special copy" or "copy" action for the "/templates" directory.
Also verify if the "/templates" directory is created as a symbolic link or a physical directory.

If you have a symbolic link, this is normal that any changes performed in the master is also reflected in the slave site and vice versa.

==========