JCE Plugin(s)
Posted by samhnky - 2011/09/12 04:33

The latest version of JCE and JCE Plugins appears to not be supported by JMS Multi Site. I have installed JCE and the JCE Template manager on my Master site and one of my Slave sites. Both Master and Slave site can use the JCE editor, but on the Slave site when trying to use the JCE Template Manager to select a template for an article I receive multiple errors that reference the Master site directory. I think the JCE Template manager is referencing back to the Master site to try and build the "directory" listing where the template files can be selected from, instead of looking to the Slave site directory. I've attached the plugin below for you to test with. Once you have downloaded it, please remove as it is a purchased plugin, and do not wish to violate the license.

==========

Re:JCE Plugin(s)
Posted by samhnky - 2011/09/13 05:42

---

edwin2win You normally pick these up fairly quickly and at least notify if it is something JMS2WIN can work on... I see you haven't made any updates to the Forum since 9/10, so I hope everything is ok, and patiently wait for your advice on how to proceed.

==========

Re:JCE Plugin(s)
Posted by edwin2win - 2011/09/13 09:44

I just read you post and removed the attachement.
In the future, you can directly send me the file by email to avoid publishing it.

Sorry if sometime it takes time to get a reply in the forum.
Here you can noticed that was the week-end and sorry I don't work 24 hours a day and 7 days a weeks.
Sometimes, I also need to do a break.

==========

Re:JCE Plugin(s)
Posted by samhnky - 2011/09/15 00:27

Thank you, I wasn't upset. Just knew you were normally very fast to respond, so I was just expressing that I hoped everything was going well for you. I hope you had a great weekend, and I say if it was too short take a longer one... I'll still be here when you ready... :)

Just let me know if you need anything else from me... I did try to PM you the other night, as I thought that was what I had done in the past, but I couldn't find the PM, and if I have had your email in the past, I forgot about it...

==========

Re:JCE Plugin(s)
Posted by edwin2win - 2011/09/15 17:41

I have correctly received the extension but didn't yet had the time to investigate in detail. You are in my to do list.

==========

Re:JCE Plugin(s)
Posted by edwin2win - 2011/09/17 14:05

The JCE templatemanger does not contain the JCE.

Please send me in the attachement of an email all the extension that are required to reproduce the problem.
I am not able to install the jce_templatemanager_203. Joomla report an error that "Plugin Install: No plugin file specified"

It seems this plugin should be installed inside another extension (I suppose the JCE component that you didn't sent).

See the contact us for the email address
http://www.jms2win.com/en/contact-us

==========

Re:JCE Plugin(s)
Posted by edwin2win - 2011/09/21 16:48

Can you give us the example of error message that you received.
Perhaps a screenshot will help us.

The test that we did and that was OK is the following.
We installed JCE in the master website.
After that we installed the "template manager" in the JCE AddOn plugins.

When done, we replicated the master website to create a slave site with a specific images directory. In JMS Template rule, we selected "copy" action for the "/images" directory.
In this case, the "template manger" button present in the article display the correct list of files and folder corresponding to the slave site.

If you had decided to share the "/images" directory with "Symbolic Link" in the JMS Template rule then you have the same "/images" directory and therefore the template manager display the same files and folders.

So if you have additional info on the scenario that would help us to reproduce the behavior, they are welcome. (screenshot, step by step procedure, ...)

==========

Re:JCE Plugin(s)
Posted by samhnky - 2011/09/23 03:25

I will try to get the detailed info this weekend.
The basics are:
I have a master site and about 10 slave sites. All of which have their own Template folder and their own Images folder. I've installed the JCE plugin on the Master site, and the slave sites. I've also installed the JCE add-on on the Master site and the Slave site. When clicking the icon on the Master site I get the Template window as expected. When clicking on the template icon on the Slave site the little html popup "window" starts to load but the content is "squished" down to the bottom by the following error Messages...
Warning: array_merge_recursive() : Argument #1 is not an array in /home1/dataload/public_html/mastersite/components/com_jce/editor/libraries/classes/editor.php on line 247

Warning: Invalid argument supplied for foreach() in /home1/dataload/public_html/mastersite/administrator/components/com_jce/classes/parameter.php on line 312

Warning: array_merge_recursive() : Argument #1 is not an array in /home1/dataload/public_html/mastersite/components/com_jce/editor/libraries/classes/editor.php on line 247

Warning: Invalid argument supplied for foreach() in /home1/dataload/public_html/mastersite/administrator/components/com_jce/classes/parameter.php on line 312

Warning: array_merge_recursive() : Argument #1 is not an array in /home1/dataload/public_html/mastersite/components/com_jce/editor/libraries/classes/editor.php on line 247

Warning: Invalid argument supplied for foreach() in /home1/dataload/public_html/mastersite/administrator/components/com_jce/classes/parameter.php on line 312

(note: I changed the name of my master site in the path above to "mastersite" to try and protect my site.)

==========

Re:JCE Plugin(s)
Posted by edwin2win - 2011/09/25 09:30

The error line 247, seems related to a bad value in the configuration of JCE.
Perhaps you have put a wrong value somewhere.

The error seems related to a wrong value provide to the json_decode function and that would return a bad value.

I suggest that you report this issue to JCE support.

The second warning in line 312 is the consequence of the previous one.

==========