DocMan et JMS ?

Posted by scraffe - 2009/01/24 14:53

Hello,
The installation of DocMAn with JMS goes well against by I wonder whether it is possible to set a download directory by sub site.
Indeed, Docman demand absolute and does not change with the address of the new site, I would like to add in the config file for each client / multi / xxxsoussite / so that each customer have a private directory
If someone has an idea?
Thank you in advance

****

Bonjour,
L'installation de DocMAn avec JMS se passe bien par contre je voudrais savoir si il est possible de mettre un répertoire de téléchargement par sous site.
En effet, Docman demande des chemins absolue et celui ci ne change pas avec l'adresse du nouveau site, je voudrais rajouter dans le fichier de config de chaque client "/multisite/xxxsoussite/ pour que chaque client ai son répertoire privée
Si quelqu'un a une idée ?
Merci d'avance

Cordialement
S.Craffe

==========

Re:DocMan et JMS ?

Posted by edwin2win - 2009/01/24 18:37

JMS already contain the patch for this extension and already create specific DocMan configuration file.
See FAQ / Patches definition 1.1.2 history http://www.jms2win.com/faq/patches-definition-version-11x
Check that the patches are correctly installed.
You can setup the DocMan configuration specifically for each slave site.
The configiruation are all saved in the DocMan directory and not in the /multisites directory.

==========

Re:DocMan et JMS ?

Posted by scraffe - 2009/01/24 22:56

Ok
Apparently DocMan to its configuration files individually, but I am forced to change the path manually in each new venue created to specify a folder private?
I think we should do the same for images produced in VirtueMart?

==========